These selected paragraphs distill the contents and give you a quick look inside Boys and Girls of Colonial Days: Look inside the book: I was patient, Love said, as you bade me be, and see, she cried as, hand in hand, they reached the quaint little cottage where Jan and his mother stood at the door to greet them, in good time they both came to me-the pink tulip, and my father. .When the candle dipping was over and the precious candles were laid away to be burned only if the father and little Nathaniel came home, Hannah slipped six, as small as Christmas tree candles, from one rod and wrapped them carefully in a bit of fair white linen. About Carolyn Sherwin Bailey, the Author: She was born in Hoosick Falls, New York and attended Teachers College, Columbia University, from which she graduated in 1896. 2 She contributed to the Ladies Home Journal and other magazines, and published volumes of stories for children, methods of story telling, methods of...
